If I were planning to move to another country, I would need to learn the language of that country. Otherwise, I would be greatly handicapped. I would not be able to communicate. I would be isolated and alone. Language is very important. And while there are hundreds of languages spoken around the world, there is only one language that can be understood by all...of course, it is the language of love.

Unfortunately, few people speak this language. Perhaps this is because the language of love is difficult to learn—not in the sense of syntax, grammar, tenses or pronunciation but in the sense of attitudes and actions. You see, love is the language of the heart. It communicates not only through words but mostly through actions.

The Bible describes the language of love this way: Love is patient, love is kind. It does not envy, it does not boast, it is not proud. It does not dishonor others, it is not self-seeking, it is not easily angered, it keeps no record of wrongs. Love does not delight in evil but rejoices with the truth. It always protects, always trusts, always hopes, always perseveres. Love never fails.

There's no doubt that being fluent in this language may be challenging, but think how much better we would all be if we learned the language of love. They say the best way to learn a new language is simply to jump into it and do it.

As Valentine's Day approaches, let's commit ourselves to practice this language each day. Remember the Apostle Paul's words—"If I speak in the tongues of men or of angels, but do not have love, I am only a resounding gong or a clanging symbol."

"Valentine's Day"

Dear friends, let us love one another, for love comes from God. Everyone who loves has been born of God and knows God. 1 John 4:7

The child of God knows how to love others because of the love he or she has experienced in Christ. That unconditional love is seen directly or indirectly in the expressed sentiments of the season.

While questions exist as to the exact origin of Valentine's Day, the following story is the most generally accepted. Saint Valentine was a Christian priest who lived during the time of the Roman emperor Claudius. Claudius was actively involved in recruiting men for his powerful army. Thinking that unmarried men would be more likely to stay faithful to the Roman military, Claudius ruled that no more marriages could be performed and that all engagements must be canceled.

Valentine found this ruling unfair, and legend tells us that he secretly performed marriage ceremonies for the unfortunate young people. Claudius discovered Valentine's actions, and he threw the priest in jail, where Valentine was beheaded on February 14, 269.

In 496, Pope Gelasius declared February 14 to be a day in honor of St. Valentine. Even before this holiday, February was considered the month to celebrate spring and fertility. The pagan festival of Lupercalia coincided with the Christian Valentine's Day, and scholars are not sure if the two festivals are related or not. In either case, February 14 remains a day that people celebrate romantic and friendly love.

Something to Consider ... Substitutes

"Please bring me a glass of unsweetened tea along with a couple of packets of sugar substitute." "I'll have to replace this copper pipe with a substitute, perhaps plastic."

Sometimes substitutes are sufficient, sometimes not. There is no substitute for our presence in this world. Each of us is unique and has his or her place to fill in the scheme of things. No one can take that place. There is no substitute for our presence in the home. If we should leave, our responsibility to the home would be partially carried out but never completely fulfilled. There is no substitute for our presence with friends in need. No one can give the aid and comfort which are our exclusive gifts to impart to those dear souls with whom we have walked the pathway of life and whose company has enriched our journey.

There is no substitute for our presence in the church. As a part of the family of faith, we have our place to fill which can be filled by no other. Our calling and commitment have set us apart for the special service which we alone can perform.

There is no substitute for the power of our influence among people. We all influence others in some way, even when we do not realize that we are imparting power of any kind. Yet our endowments of mental, physical, spiritual, and emotional power are constantly reaching out to touch someone in the realm of our influence.

Do we understand? There is no substitute for you. You are needed. You are special. You are loved. Think about that ... and be thankful.

Another Good Deed ...

An Indiana family is warm thanks to a good Samaritan who braved sub-zero temperatures to split some wood. The Greene County man, who chose to remain nameless, responded to a plea on Facebook that a family was in need. He fired up his friend's wood splitter and then delivered it all to the young mother of two. "The good Lord tells us that we should look out for everyone," he told the Greene County World News.

Valentine Fun Facts

- During Medieval times, girls ate unusual foods on St. Valentine's Day to have a dream of their future husband.
- In the Middle Ages, people believed that the first unmarried person of the opposite sex you met on the morning of St. Valentine's Day would become your spouse.
- Some people believed that if a woman saw a robin flying overhead on Valentine's Day, it meant she would marry a sailor and if she saw a sparrow, she would marry a poor man and be very happy. If she saw a goldfinch, she would marry a very rich person.
